Gloom and doom overcome Work aplenty for jobseekers

MANPOWER Rockhampton is busy filling jobs throughout the region with local job-seekers.

Business manager of Manpower Berni Jakstas said it was refreshing to see the doom and gloom of earlier this year was not having a major impact on the region and new projects were bringing more opportunity for job seekers.

"Development in the area, cranes on the skyline, new projects under consideration all have a huge impact on employment opportunities for local workers so we can only hope this growth keeps up the momentum and new projects are moved forward as quickly as possible," she said.

Despite the global downturn, the Manpower Rockhampton team continues to be busy placing more people into jobs, from labourers, chefs and administration staff to construction workers.

Ms Jakstas said the company strongly adhered to the vision statement: "To lead in the creation and delivery of services that enable our clients to win in the changing world of work".

"Manpower Rockhampton is progressing by adhering to that vision and working in marketplaces that aren't traditional in Rockhampton," she said.

"We are encouraged to see further development and further projects being approved and moving forward across the region.

"Unemployment is much higher in other areas and the Rockhampton region is doing really well in comparison."
