

New projects help work placements

MANPOWER Rockhampton is busy filling jobs with local jobseekers with the help of new projects throughout the region.

Business manager of Manpower Berni Jakstas said it was refreshing to see that in the middle of the year the doom and gloom was not having a major impact on the region and new projects were bringing more opportunity for job seekers.

“Development in the area, cranes on the skyline, new projects under consideration all have a huge impact on employment opportunities for local workers so we can only hope this growth keeps up the momentum and new projects are moved forward as quickly as possible,” she said.

Despite the downturn, Manpower Rockhampton is busy placing more people into jobs from labourers, chefs and admin staff to construction workers.

Ms Jakstas said the company strongly adhered to the vision statement: “To lead in the creation and delivery of services that enable our clients to win in the changing world of work”.

“Manpower Rockhampton is still busy placing more people into jobs from labourers, chefs and admin staff to construction workers

“Manpower Rockhampton is progressing by adhering to that vision and working in marketplaces that aren’t traditional in Rockhampton,” she said.

“We encourage further development and further projects to be approved and moved forward as quickly as possible in the region.”

Unemployment is much higher in other areas and Ms Jakstas said the Rockhampton region was doing really well in comparison.

To find out how Manpower can help you find the right person for your company call Berni and the team at Rockhampton on 4927 2200 or for more information on Manpower please visit www.manpower.com.au

EMPLOYMENT VISION: Business manager for Manpower Berni Jakstas is busy filling jobs with local jobseekers with the help of new projects from throughout the region.

PHOTO: NIKITA WATTS NW21/0509/1